

I have been surprised at the skewed media coverage of the Bush-Kerry campaign. But while most of it was just skewed journalism, unpleasant but not seemingly illegal, I'm aghast at the recent news that Sinclair wants to air a decades-old story against Kerry and call it "news" to avoid admitting that this is effectively a 1-hour pro-Bush ad. This is ridiculous. Your Commissioner said as much. I hope you don't shirk your responsibility and do something to stop this flagrant abuse of the consolidated media's power.
